INTRODUCTION

The Reader Development Program of The Free Library of Philadelphia makes available materials to aid adults and young adults who read on the eighth grade reading level or below in overcoming the educational, cultural and economic deficiencies in their lives. Part of the Program's efforts have been directed toward acquisition of audio-visual materials to meet the needs of this population. In 1971, the Reader Development Program published Filmstrips, Phonograph Records, Cassettes: An Annotated List of Audio-Visual Material. This bibliography revises and updates the filmstrip portion of that listing. It represents a critically evaluated collection of filmstrips for use with adults and young adults, with a special focus on the needs of the under-educated and disadvantaged in our society.

These materials are loaned for one week periods to Philadelphians. Although projection equipment is loaned only to Free Library staff members, some limited group arrangements may be made by contacting branches of the Free Library of Philadelphia.

Complete bibliographic details are included for those persons who may wish to use the listing as a buying guide. If a filmstrip title is available in two or more sound formats, an asterisk (*) denotes the format owned by the Reader Development Program. Efforts were made to obtain correct prices for every filmstrip listed herein, however some prices were not available. Due to continuous change in filmstrip cost, users of this list are advised to consider these figures as an approximation.

Two reference aids are included in this list. An alphabetical listing of filmstrip distributors lists those companies from whom items herein may be obtained. Although addresses were checked thoroughly, it must be realized that they, too, are subject to change.

Finally, a subject index to the filmstrips in this list has been added for the user's convenience. The informal index lists subjects, followed by an alphabetical list of titles. No page numbers are included, since the original list is itself alphabetical. Filmstrip titles are frequently listed under more than one subject heading.
